Holistic design inspired by natural landscapes

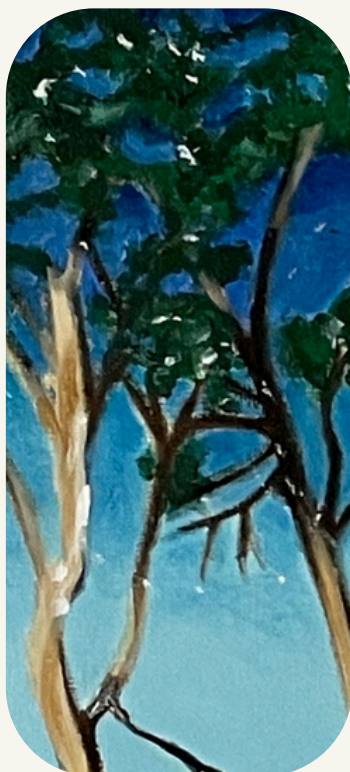

The Shelf - STRENGTH

Our 7 floating wall shelves echo the forms of natural landscapes and are available in ten colors inspired by dune environments. These hues capture the harmonious balance of Water, Fire (sunlight), Air, and Earth — the elemental forces that shape each unique form, or “Soul”, in nature, from plants and flowers to trees. This design approach reflects our belief that landscapes are more than visual inspiration — they offer a path to self-discovery.

At the same time, each shelf not only reflects the shape of a landscape but also contours the forms of our internal organs. Each design subtly corresponds to a specific organ, while also recalling the shape of a natural food known to nourish that very organ. The organic lines also suggest physical movement. Just as movement and nourishing foods strengthen our internal organs, these designs remind us that nature nurtures both body and soul. By connecting the soul-searching journey through landscapes to the inner workings of the body, each form expresses a deeper truth: authentic self-discovery draws you into a life where caring for yourself becomes second nature. The shelves can be combined with The Ledge.

The Shelf - COURAGE

The Shelf - VITALITY

The Ledge

Each piece serves as a gentle reminder to spend time in nature — to feel the emotions its colors awaken in you, and to bring that feeling into your home. Designing with nature's palette invites the creation of spaces that nurture imagination, presence, and creative flow. In this way, our homes become mirrors of our essence, offering the atmosphere that supports creative exploration. That's why our designs act as quiet nudges toward self-discovery — captured in our tagline: 'design to become'.

A personal note: The meaning of Klip

Klip began during a bike ride on 'de Klip' — a dune hill in Wassenaar, The Netherlands, that marks the gateway to the beach where I spent joyful childhood days. It's part of the larger dune landscape of Meijendel and Berkheide, a place I found myself returning to often later in life. At that time, I was quite unhappy, but as I continued cycling on 'de Klip', I felt a deep sense of freedom and presence as the sun lit up the serene colors of the landscape. I felt home. I had always been drawn to interior design, and in that moment, the idea sparked: to create interior products inspired by nature.

The name Klip refers to that gateway, but also to sea stacks — the meaning of "klip" in Dutch. These rock formations, rising above the sea and shaped by time and the elements, symbolize — within the concept of Klip — transformation and the journey of becoming one's unique shape through self-discovery.

The sea stack shape of our logo reflects the number 7 — a symbol of completeness. It refers to the 7 distinct shelf shapes, as well as the 7-step soul-searching process I hope to inspire through them. It also honors 7 key inspirations: Scandinavian design, Biophilic design, Ayurveda, The Poetics of Space (1958), The Scream by Edvard Munch (1893), Georgia O'Keeffe's Ghost Ranch, and the psychology of colors and shapes. In addition, the letters K L I P stand for our core values: Knowledge-based, Long-lasting, Inspiring, and Practical.

I hope to inspire you to spend time in nature, feel its energy move through you, and bring that inspiration home. Design spaces that reflect what nature awakens within you, and engage in creative activities inspired by its atmosphere. Keep returning to nature and allow your home to evolve alongside you. This ongoing cycle is a path of transformation — where your home becomes a sanctuary for self-expression and discovery, and you become your true essence.

And when the day arrives, having lived every creative expression of yourself, you will feel whole — having let nature, born from the vast universe, move through you, you became everything. You became the whole universe. You became eternal.

Then, in some future moment, when someone faces their darkest hour, they will look up at the night sky and ask, "Who am I?" Inspired by the endless beauty of nature — just as you once were — they will create. And the cycle of becoming will continue.

To your becoming,

Jelmar Yannick Buis
